

RELIGION AND PLURALISM IN EDUCATION

Comparative Approaches in the Western Balkans

ed. Zorica Kuburić and Christian Moe
Novi Sad: CEIR, 2006
in cooperation with the Kotor Network

WEB SITE

A home page for this book is maintained at <http://kotor-network.info/research/joint/2005/index.htm>

There you will find

- a free PDF download of the entire book for personal use;
- translations of several chapters from the book into local languages;
- a list of errata;
- and other updates and information.

ERRATA

- p. 73, footnote 2, last sentence: “Today, only the schools...” should read: “Today, mainly the schools...”
- p. 78, 3rd paragraph: “...as a weekly two-hour elective course...” should read: “as a weekly one- or two-hour elective course...”
- p. 101, 7 lines from bottom: The sentence “In the Muslim-majority cantons...” should read: “In the Muslim-majority cantons, it is optional or optional-compulsory.” (cf. p. 78; cantons with compulsory classes changed their laws in 2004).
- p. 141, table 6.1: “Gipsies” should read: “Roma”; “Bosnians” should read: “Bosniaks”; “2003 census” should read: “2002 census”.

See the home page for future additions to this list.

KOTOR NETWORK

ON RELIGION IN PLURAL SOCIETIES

<http://kotor-network.info>